

COLLAPSING SUN

female fronted metal fusion

band info

Collapsing Sun perform music that is settled somewhere between modern rock and metal. It can at best be described as melodic though driving and grooving - aggressive though at times balladesque. The song writing encompasses both straight and catchy as well as complex and convoluted songs. All this focuses on the distinctive voice of vocalist Rebecca who stands out with her powerful and soul-drenched performance.

Anyway, this is a far stretch to the cliché gothic rock which is at this time availed by most female-fronted rock/metal bands.

Collapsing Sun are based in Dortmund, Germany. They have been around since 2003 while the current line up exists since 2005. A three-track demo has been released in early 2006 which was followed by a couple of shows. The next step will be the recording of the first self-produced album which will commence in September 2006 and will be unleashed to the public in early 2007.
